Shahan Work Is Selected By Association At Conference

A composition composed by Professor Paul Shahan of Murray State College has been selected to represent the Southern Division of the College Band Directors' National Association. It will be performed at the association's national conference in Tempe, Arizona on December 18, 1964. During the conference, Shahan will be awarded an honorary membership in Kappa Kappa Psi (national honor) college band fraternity by the organization's Grand President.

"The Fountain Head", a tone poem, is the title of Shahan's composition. This work for symphonic band was composed for and dedicated to the Centennial Celebration of the state of West Virginia. The work had its premiere performance in Charleston, West Virginia during the 1962 Southern Music Educators Convention.

A music critic, in reaction to the premiere performance of "The Fountain Head", wrote: "The composer has been remarkably successful in capturing the grandeur of this mountainous state. The work abounds with vivid harmonic contrasts and truly manifests the dramatic and spirited style which characterizes modern American music."

Shahan, director of bands at Murray State since 1957, has served for four years as state chairman of the Kentucky College Band Directors. He is a graduate of Fairmont State College, West Virginia University, and Peabody College. He is a candidate for the Doctor of Musical Arts degree at the Eastman School of Music.

Professor Shahan has studied composition and orchestration with Roy Harris, Kent Kennan, Bernard Rogers and Howard Hanson. Since coming to Murray Shahan has been active in the southeastern states as an adjudicator, guest conductor and clinician. Several of his compositions have been published and recorded.

Garden Department Members Enjoy Program On Thursday

Gene Dixon, florist and lecturer from Providence, Ky., created Christmas magic for members of the Murray Women's Club Garden Department and their guests in a special program Thursday afternoon at the clubhouse.

Using household trivia plus a few glittering items from a florist collection, Mr. Dixon demonstrated how to make "Something from Nothing". Greenery, pine cones and gold velvet ribbon transformed a straw wreath into a lovely door arrangement. A simple rattan mat was sprayed white, covered with greenery and decorated with red starburst for another door arrangement.

Mr. Dixon emphasized the importance of filling the house with Christmas to delight family and friends, with arrangements using old Christmas cards, red velvet door bows, kissing balls made with permanent holly and tiny angels.

Correction Is Made In Mariner-4

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Mariner-4, the United States' space craft designed to photograph earth's intriguing neighbor Mars, jumped the gun today when scientists gave it duplicate midcourse maneuver commands.

Scientists termed the first attempt to change Mariner's course a "blunder," but said it was not serious. The spacecraft is equipped with a two-burn motor and in the future this morning the motor was not used—therefore, giving scientist two more chances to make the delicate correction designed to place Mariner close enough to Mars to take photographs.

Immediately after Mariner, for an unknown reason, disobeyed its signal orders, scientists ordered the spacecraft to again lock on the sun and the giant star Canopus. The spacecraft's light sensor "saw" made two false steps in its search for Canopus, the largest star in the Southern Hemisphere.

When Mariner was launched last Saturday it had difficulty in finding Canopus. The spacecraft looked on four wrong stars before it finally found the correct one.

Experts had hoped to change Mariner's course to bring it between 12,000 and 8,000 miles of Mars when it flies by the red planet next July.

Without the correction, Mariner-4 would approach Mars about next July 14 at a distance of about 151,000 miles — still a fantastic feat, considering its 325-million-mile, 7½-month-long journey through space.

Mariner-4, launched last Saturday from Cape Kennedy, Fla., has held a sizeable lead over Russia's Zond-2, launched two days later, because the Russian Mars race entry was reported to have suffered a 50 per cent power loss early in flight.

Mancil Vinson Tells Rotary Of New 'Cash Crop'

"Outdoor recreation is a new cash crop which Kentucky farmers and rural residents can harvest," Mancil J. Vinson, assistant commissioner, Kentucky Department of Agriculture, told members of the Murray Rotary Club yesterday noon. Hailing the tourist opportunities for rural Kentucky and related businesses in the western part of the state, Vinson said "it is time for a united effort to capitalize upon the potential this section offers in recreational enterprises."

Vinson was introduced by E. B. Howton, head of the Department of Agriculture at Murray State College. Emphasizing what outdoor recreational developments could mean to Kentucky, Vinson said that the Department of Agriculture has completed a survey of present outdoor recreational facilities, along with the potential for future development. He said the survey has shown that there are many forms in Kentucky which have a potential to develop fishing ponds, campsites, trailer parks, picnic areas, hiking trails, hunting preserves or farm vacations, which would provide a new source of income.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

KERFLOP!

Cartoonists coax many a laugh out of the spectacle of a man slipping on a banana peel. But in real life, the victim seldom finds it funny. In fact, so many lawsuits arise out of this kind of accident that lawyers talk about "slip and fall" cases as a separate branch of the law.

Suppose, while shopping in a market, you unwittingly step on a banana peel (or some other debris that doesn't belong on the floor). If you are injured, may you collect damages from the market?

Ordinarily you have a good claim, provided you can show fault on the part of the management. As a customer, you are entitled to a reasonably safe place to shop. The management has an affirmative duty to keep the floor clean.

However, the store does not guarantee you perfect safety. It is not liable for the accident if it could not reasonably have prevented.

Very often, a key question is this: how long had the object been lying on the floor before you slipped on it? Had it been there long enough so that store employees should have noticed and removed it?

And, very often, no one really knows for sure. Then the law turns into a kind of Sherlock Holmes, using telltale clues in an effort to "reconstruct the crime."

In one case a woman slipped on a piece of candy that was dirty, flattened down, and scarred with numerous heel marks. Moreover, the spot of floor underneath the candy was noticeably cleaner than the floor around it. The court decided this was enough evidence to prove that the management had allowed the candy to lie there too long. Likewise, a man who slipped on ice cream won damages partly because the ice cream had had time enough to melt.

And in another case, the bruised condition of some lettuce leaves was held not enough reason to pin liability on the store. The court pointed out that the lettuce might have been dropped only an instant before the accident, then crushed by the victim's own shoe.

Reminder: your claim, even though otherwise valid, may be jeopardized if your own negligence helped to cause the accident. The law, in placing responsibility on the store, does not thereby remove responsibility from you. With respect to your own safety, you cannot pass the buck. You can only share it.

BIGGER, IF NOT BETTER

WASHINGTON — A sizable part of the human race seems to be growing taller and broader, according to the National Geographic. The growth has been most striking in the United States, pushing Americans up among the biggest people in the world.

American men now average 5 feet, 10 inches. — 2 inches more than in 1900. Women are taller, too, averaging 5 feet, 5 inches. Weights also have gone up, to an average of 165 pounds for men, 127 pounds for women.

DEEP, DEEP!

NEW YORK — The nation's roads and highways are going to have to carry a staggering burden of 122 million motor vehicles by 1974, or half again as many as today, a C.I.T. Corporation official predicts.

In the same decade, says Charles S. Jensen, president, whose firm finances the purchase of road building equipment, the number of licensed drivers is expected to jump from the present 93.7 million to more than 140 million.

CRACKDOWN ON LITTERBUGS

NEW YORK — Litter bugs in a growing number of states are facing a new and persuasive punishment.

Judges, losing patience with the purveyors of trash, are sentencing offenders to cleanup stints along state highways in lieu of fines and terms in the jail house, according to Keep America Beautiful, the national organization dedicated to elimination of littering through public education. Highway "cleanup sentences" have been levied by judges in New Jersey, California, Missouri, South Dakota, Maryland and Michigan.

FADDIST

WASHINGTON, England — David Burgess, an 18-year-old tree-feller, was fined 30 pounds ($94) for carrying an offensive weapon — a four-foot-jane woodsman's axe — in a public place.

Prosecutor Louis Borrett said Burgess, during an argument on the doorstep of a house, lifted the axe above his head and said to a girl, "I will tell you down the middle."

When asked why he did not fight with his hands instead of such a "monstrous thing," he replied, "It's the new craze out."

enough to melt.

NEW YORK — Glass is the world's oldest manufactured substance. The first glass containers were hand-molded around clay cores 15 centuries before the birth of Christ. But even now, after the passage of almost 3,500 years, glass remains a paradox.

The Glass Container Manufacturers Institute reports that today glass can be blown as thin as a soap bubble or made strong enough to stop bullets and build skyscrapers.

Maybe Knights Pulled Out Of KIAC A Year Too Soon

By Unit-Press International
Maybe Bellarmine pulled out of the Kentucky Intercollegiate Athletic Conference a year too soon. The Knights polished off Centre, 105-75 Thursday night, and while Centre isn't a member of the KIAC, it was the second convincing victory of the season scored by Bellarmine over a team of about KIAC caliber.
At the same time, no present KIAC member has emerged as a strong contender so far. Villa Madonna was touted as the team to beat but lost to Union at Covington this week—and Thursday night Union dropped a 79-73 decision to Rio Grande in an overtime.
In other Thursday night action, Western Kentucky failed again to give Johnny Oldham his first victory on the Hilltop, losing to Phillips Oilers, 68-66. Middle Tennessee went two overtimes to beat Tennessee Martin Branch, 94-85, and East Tennessee lost to Wofford, 83-72.
Kentucky State edged Pick, 72-71, in the first round of the Georgia Tournament, the Thorobreds now standing 2-0 for the season. Bellarmine fired a hot 56.8 per cent from the floor in drubbing plays at Austin Peay; Kentucky

It Will Be The Runner Against Paster Sunday

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer
It'll be Jimmy Brown against Charlie Johnson—the runner against the paster—Sunday when the Cleveland Browns seek to wrap up their first Eastern Division National Football League title since 1957 by tying or beating the St. Louis Cardinals.
The Browns are favored by three points although the Cardinals are at home.
Both teams have other offensive agents, of course, but the pre-game battle lines feature the peerless runner against the best of the NFL's young passers. With 1,288 yards gained on the ground this season, Brown is en route to his seventh rushing title.
Johnson ranks only ninth among NFL passers this season with 180 completions for 17 touchdowns and 2,557 yards but most of his problems have stemmed from the Cardinals' erratic offensive line. If Johnson receives adequate protection, he is a Johnny Unitas-type who can win a game virtually single-handed.
The Browns and Cardinals battled to a 33-33 tie in an early-season game that reached a dramatic climax when Jim Bakken kicked a 28-yard field goal with five seconds left on the clock.
The weekend's action begins on Saturday afternoon when the Green Bay Packers play the Chicago Bears at Chicago in what the schedule-makers envisioned as a showdown game for the Western title. Both teams are long since out of the race, however, and the Packers are favored by 7 points to hand the outgoing world champions their eighth loss of the season.
The Baltimore Colts are rated nine points over the Detroit Lions, the San Francisco Forty-Niners are three over the Los Angeles Rams, the Washington Redskins are eight over the Pittsburgh Steelers, the Philadelphia Eagles are four over the Dallas Cowboys and the Minnesota Vikings are seven over the New York Giants in other Sunday games.
Lenny Moore needs three touchdowns in his final two games of the season to equal the NFL's all-

Vandy May Have Best Team In South And The Smartest Too

By DAVID M. MCFFITT
UPI Press International
Atlanta, Ga. (UPI) — Vanderbilt University not only may have the best basketball team in the South—it also may have the smartest.
Youthful coach Roy Skinner expects that at Vanderbilt the emphasis more on academics than athletics and prospects are required to make 250 more points on the college boards than the minimum set by the Southeastern Conference.
"It keeps going up every year," Skinner said. "Several of the boys are going to school if they were being paid. Our current freshman averaged 1,200 on the entrance exam—450 above the conference minimum standards."
Skinner points out that this insistence on high academic proficiency is making his recruiting job extremely tough. "We had one hot prospect already signed—then lost him into school if they were being paid. Our current freshman averaged 1,200 on the entrance exam—450 above the conference minimum standards."
When Vanderbilt scouts get wind of a good high school player, they head first for his principal's office and check on his grades.
"He can be averaging 50 points per game on that basketball court, but if he doesn't have at least a B average we would be wasting time trying to sign him up," Skinner said.
Despite this problem, Vanderbilt has done a pretty good recruiting job the past few years.
The Commodores were rated sixth nationally in the preseason UPI poll and Skinner is among those who believe they'll remain at least that high this season.
The Commodores posted a 19-6 mark last year. They were 17-2 going into mid-February, then lost four of their last six games, including a critical loss to the University of Kentucky.
There was only one senior on last year's team—a seldom used reserve. At that—and it heightens the belief that Vanderbilt is expected to be a power this year. All five starters and four other lettermen return.
"At that," said Skinner, "we may time record of 20 in a season—and that's about all the incentive the Western champion Colts have against the Lions. The Lions, on the other hand, could still wind up in second place in the West and have the third best defense in the league."

Charlie Forrest, Tommy Glover, John Wheeler Named To Eleven

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Western Kentucky's Hilltoppers failed to defend their Ohio Valley Conference football championship this past season, but the Hilltoppers placed five players on the All-Conference team announced today by league officials.
By contrast, the new champions from Middle Tennessee landed only one of the 22-man squad, a figure matched by Murray and Morehead.
The up-and-coming Governors of Austin Peay placed four men on the list for a club that had to win a single berth only year ago.
The league and Tennessee each claimed two places, with Eastern Kentucky being shut entirely.
New players won unanimous selection—end Jack Smith of Morehead Western Kentucky line-backer Dale Lindsey, and East Tennessee running back Dale Holt.
First missing unanimous selection with seven first-team and one second-team vote were three other Westerners—linebacker John Wheeler of Murray, halfback Jim Burt of Western, and Austin Peay halfback Tim Chilcott.
Wheeler, Burt and Lindsey all were repeaters from the 1963 squad while Murray fullback Tommy Glover, who made it in 1962, came back this year to win the offensive fullback nod.
Murray is represented in the offensive backfield by a pair of statistical leaders—Glover, who led the league in rushing, and quarterback Charlie Forrest, who set a new OVC mark for total offense.
Of the 22 named to the first team, 15 are seniors and 7 are juniors. All but five came from the OVC—10 from Tennessee, 7 from Kentucky.
The offensive unit line world—216 pounds the backs 182; defensive unit world 220; line men 170 the line, 170 the backfield.
The all-Ohio Valley Conference football team:

Dear Abby Change Tactics, Lady!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: If they rented out "fathers" for special occasions, I would be their best customer. Every time my boys need their father, he's somewhere else. Our youngest son played first base with the Little League last summer and his father didn't come to see him play once! Now it's football season and one of the boys plays in the band and the other one is on the team, and every time they ask their father to go to a game, he's too tired. But let one of his friends call him up and he finds the strength to go with them. Frankly, I am getting sick and tired of being the only mother there. One of the kids asked our boys if they HAD a father. I have yelled at him, scolded, cussed him out, threatened and shamed him, but I still can't get him to go. Any suggestions?

DISGUSTED
DEAR DISGUSTED: Try a little tenderness. You've tried everything else, and you're nothing to lose.

DEAR ABBY: My wife is expecting her fifth baby and, of course, we have been telling our friends the news. Our other children are 17, 15, 12, and 9. We are amazed at how many people ask us, "Was this one planned?" We consider this none of your business, but we don't know how to answer to put them in their place. Have you any suggestions?

EXPECTANT FATHER
DEAR FATHER: Reply, "If you'll forgive my rudeness for ignoring your question, I'll forgive your rudeness for having asked it."

DEAR ABBY: I have two daughters in their teens, just starting to date. What worries me is their going in cars with boys. How can a mother find out what kind of a driver a boy is without embarrassing him? I have forbidden my girls to go out with some boys because of the way they drive. But what about the boys I never meet until they come for a date? I worry myself sick until the girls get home safely from a date. Don't say, "Ask your daughter," because if she likes a boy she isn't going to say anything against him.

DEAR CONCERNED: There is no way to find out what kind of a driver a boy is unless you have seen him drive, or his reputation for driving has preceded him. Tell your teen-age daughters that they risk defacing, crippling injury or death when they accept dates with dangerous drivers. And if they do not get the message, your alternative is prayer.

DEAR ABBY: My fiancé is about two inches shorter than I am. We have never discussed the difference in height, but I have always worn flats when we were together, which made us about the same height. We are now making plans for our wedding. I would like to wear high heels, which would make me taller than he, so I asked him if he minded wearing elevated shoes just for the wedding. He said YES, he minded very much, and if I wanted him to be taller than I, I should wear flats. Will you tell me what is the right way to settle this?

TALL GIRL
DEAR GIRL: Since you have always worn flats with him in the past, wear them for your wedding.

SHAKE, BROTHER!
NEW YORK: The handshake originated in the peaceful desire of primitive civilizations, according to Encyclopedia Americana. In those times, men extended their hands to show they were not going to use their weapons and the handshake developed from this practice.

Miss Lutricia Hale Complimented Recently With Prenuptial Events Before Her Wedding

Miss Lutricia Hale who was married to Dan Poyner last Saturday was the honoree at several events held preceding her wedding.

Tea-Showers
A lovely tea-shower was held at the Murray Woman's Club House with Mrs. Joe Young, Mrs. Gerald Paschall, and Mrs. Ray Sims as the gracious hostesses.

The honoree wore for the bridal event a shell pink sheath frock. Her mother, Mrs. Clyde Hale, and her mother-in-law to be, Mrs. Buren Poyner, were attired in black ensembles. They were all presented hostesses' gift corsages of white carnations.

Refreshments were served from the beautifully appointed table overlaid with a white linen cloth and centered with a yellow floral arrangement. Large wedding bells were used and the cakes were decorated in green and white.

Miss Sandra Costello presided at the punch bowl and Miss Rosemary Alsop served the cakes.

The register table covered with a green cloth and centered with a small arrangement. Miss Linda Hale, sister of the honoree, kept the register. Miss Judy Hughes presented background music during the evening hours.

The many gifts were displayed for the guests to view. One hundred persons called or sent gifts during the hours of seven to nine o'clock on the evening of Thursday, November 19.

Supper Party
A supper party was held in Miss Hale's honor on Saturday evening, November 21, in the private dining room of the Triangle Inn.

The hostesses for the pre-nuptial event were Mrs. Alfred Lindsey, Mrs. Noble Farris, Mrs. John Whit-nell, Miss Madeline Lamb, Mrs. Hillard Rogers, and Mrs. Harry Siedel.

Miss Hale chose to wear for the occasion a tulle-trimmed suit of navy knit and was presented a corsage of white baby mums by the hostesses, who also gave her a lovely wedding gift.

The table was centered with an arrangement of white and bronze chrysanthemums and ivy. Covers were laid for twenty-two persons.

Bridal Shower
Mrs. Buren Poyner and Mrs. Ella Tidwell were hostesses for a miscellaneous bridal shower held at the Poyner home on Tuesday, November 17.

The honoree opened her many lovely gifts and an evening of conversation followed. Refreshments were served from the beautifully appointed table covered with a lace cloth over green and centered with an arrangement of flowers.

Miss Kay Hughes presided at the punch bowl and Miss Lettie Hall served the cakes.

Twenty-two persons were present or sent gifts.

Methodist Youth Fellowship Meets

The Methodist Youth Fellowship of the Bethel Methodist Church met Wednesday evening at the church.

Miss Connie Evans, president, presided over the short business session after which the cast of the Christmas play had a good practice. Twenty members and four visitors were present.

Three Highly Publicized Noses Will Be Seen On TV Next Week; Special On Nobel Prizes

By JACK GAVIN

United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI)—Three well-publicized noses will be featured on NBC-TV shows next week. They belong to Danny Thomas and Jimmy Durante, with the latter appearing on Thomas' second variety special of the season, and to a reindeer known as Rudolph, star of a one-hour animated special about Christmas.

ABC offers a special on the Nobel Prizes next Saturday night.

Highlight details Dec. 6-12:

Sunday

Johnny Marks' famous song, "Rudolph, the Red-Nosed Reindeer," has inspired a one-hour animated film musical of the same title which will be aired on NBC. Burl Ives supplies the off-camera voice for an animated snowman who sings and relates the tale of Santa's favorite steed. Marks has provided seven new Christmas-type songs for this show.

The first episode of a two-part dinner drama, "Big Red," starring Walker Edmister, is on Walt Disney's NBC hour. The story of a lonely man, an orphan boy and a champion Irish Setter.

Guests on Ed Sullivan's hour include Sid Caesar, Sophie Tucker and Allen and Rossi.

"The Sunday Night Movie" on ABC will be "The Last Time I saw Archie," starring Robert Mitchum and Jack Webb.

Monday

"Misadventure" is the story on "The Alfred Hitchcock Hour" for NBC. Lois Albright and Barry Nelson appear as a pair whose "perfect crime" effort is fouled up by attempts to trick each other.

ABC's Ben Casey has "Courage at 3 a. m." Janice Rule plays a bio-chemist cancer victim who insists on brain surgery to block her pain.

The story on "Slattery's People" for CBS is "Question: Which One has the Privilege?" The problem is whether a newspaperman has the right to protect the source of a story damaging to a legislator.

Tuesday

"As in Anxiety" is the fare on NBC's "Mr. Novak." An average student cracks under the strain of trying to drive herself to make high marks.

ABC's "Combat" has "A Rare Vintage." An American soldier disguises himself as a handicapped French peasant in an effort to rescue his platoon leader from the Germans.

"America the Neutral" is the episode on "World War I" for CBS. A documentary look at United States problems in Mexico and elsewhere while war rages in Europe.

Maurice Chevalier is host on NBC's "Bell Telephone Hour." Others present will be comedian Stanley Holloway, clarinetist Pete Fountain, Spanish mezzo-soprano Teresa Bengazon and the puppets of the "Les Poupées ode Paris" show.

Wednesday

"CBS Reports" has "Segregation: Northern Style." The documentary covers the trials faced by a middle-income Negro family in trying to buy a house in a predominantly white suburban neighborhood.

NBC's "Wednesday Night at the Movies" screens "We're No Angels," starring Humphrey Bogart, Aldo Ray and Peter Ustinov.

"Who Killed 711?" is the puzzle on ABC's "Burke's Law." Suspects in the death of a financier are all guests at the same hotel and all have alibis.

Thursday

Dinah Shore presides over another "Purely Special for Women" on ABC. The dramatized problem is "The Menace of Age," with actors Arthur O'Connell, Jeanette Nolan and Marjorie Lord participating.

Perry Mason is involved in "The Case of the Wooden Nickels" on CBS. Murder, blackmail and the counterfeiting of rare coins figure in this one.

Danny Thomas' second one-hour color special for NBC has as guests Jimmy Durante, Eddie Fisher and Joey Bishop.

"Dr. Kildare" is preempted. The "Bewitched" episode for ABC is "Love is Blind," in which Samantha sets out to find a husband for a plain friend.

The "Kraft Suspense Theater" drama on NBC is "Three Persons," John Gavin and Ralph Meeker star in this story of prohibition warfare on the U. S.-Mexico border in 1922. A Cherokee Indian is hired to help break up a bootlegging gang.

Friday

Eddie Albert is guest star in "The Photographer" on "Rawhide" for CBS. He plays a man determined to photograph the West in every detail, which gets him into much trouble.

"The Shattered Glass" is the story on NBC's "Chrysler Theater." Shirley Jones, William Shatner and Dan O'Herlihy star in this drama of a woman torn between her love for a reformed alcoholic and her father's efforts to break up the romance.

In "Soldiers Sometimes Kill" on ABC's "12 O'Clock High," a general suffers a loss of memory and becomes a suspect in a murder case.

Saturday

CBS will telecast the Cleveland-New York National Football League game from New York.

ABC's special documentary, "The Nobel Prize Awards," preempts "The Outer Limits." Allstate Cooke will interview all eight of this year's Nobel laureates.

TV CAMEOS: Caterina Valente

An "Overnight" Success—After 25 Years

When the point was raised recently in New York, it brought a quick smile to the face of the shapely singer and dancer, "Mama" Valente. "A success? Yes, but to TV, no. I did my first TV show 25 years ago in Rome when I was seven."

"I will never forget it. It was an experimental variety show. I was just a little girl, and we kids loved it. But, oh, and that orange makeup we had to wear then, it was horrible. But when you are seven years old you also loved it. And what seven-year-old doesn't like to look both funny and scary?"

IN THE QUARTER of century that has passed since her debut, Caterina has established herself as an internationally famed star on a number of continents and in hundreds of cities, in films, on stage, TV and radio.

In addition, some 24 million copies of her record albums, sung in English, French, Dutch, Italian, German, Spanish, Portuguese, Greek, Swedish, Japanese, Finnish and Hebrew, have been sold.

Her versatility with languages she dismisses lightly. "I've had no formal training," she said. "But when you have performed around the world, you learn these things. Most European children who travel a lot pick up a number of languages. I make an effort to speak the language of the land in which I am working. I can concentrate on it so that I can get along well in it. I don't really learn it."

Since she has been working in the U.S. regularly for the last couple of months, Caterina has been spending a good bit of her time perfecting her English. "I don't find it difficult," she said, "since I like the language. I have a huge English library at home in Switzerland and when I am there I spend a lot of time reading in English."

Unfortunately, Caterina pointed out, her many commitments keep her from her home in Lugano about 10 months out of the year. Married to Eric Americani in 1954 through her record, "Malaguena," which was sung in German and became an international hit. This brought an offer to go on TV on "The Colgate Company Hour" with Gordon MacRae. "I flew to the U.S., sang the song on the show, and flew back immediately to an engagement in Europe," she related.

In the years following, Caterina has been here on "The Perry Como Show," "The Garry Moore Show," "The Ed Sullivan Show," "The Hollywood Palace," and is currently appearing weekly on "The Entertainers."

Despite the success she has attained in her profession, Caterina is still one of the hardest working performers in the variety field. "One thing I've learned," she said earnestly, "is that there is never a time in which you can say you have made it."

"You have to keep working to learn new things—to stay on top. In fact, you have to work twice as hard as when you started out. But I wouldn't change it for anything in the world. It is a wonderful and exciting job."

Modern Beau Brummels

HIGH-STYLE tailoring is apparent in this suit with cuffed sleeves and side vents.

BLACK AND WHITE checked wool is used for an overcoat with velours facing.

A GLEN PLAID coat is teamed with trousers in the solid ground color of the jacket. The belt is of the plaid.

By SUSAN BARDEN

CLOTHES-consciousness is advancing rapidly among American males. So the gentlemen of today may well become Twentieth Century Beau Brummels.

Two Causes

Designers of menswear attribute this renaissance of interest in good grooming to two factors.

One is the tactful prodding of the little woman. The other is the use of lightweight fabrics and modern tailoring techniques which result in looser, more comfortable suits, topcoats and sportswear.

The three styles pictured are examples of this new, easy, slim look.

The suit is for office and informal after-five, the jacket and slacks for casual and the topcoat for daytime in city or suburbs.

MANCIL VINSON ...

he said "this is the time for you to think ahead on outdoor recreational enterprises," and said that cooperation among all groups was necessary if the full opportunities were to be realized.

Continuing on the theme of community cooperation, he said "I believe it is more important today than ever, for the age of technology, even though it has brought us many blessings, has in many instances caused various groups to ease their appreciation for cooperation. This lack of unity is in evidence in too many of our communities."

"This is a highly competitive era," Vinson added, "and merely being satisfied with what we have can lead to complacency, a danger faced by many communities. Such a situation cannot exist if our people are to realize the potential offered by our natural resources, particularly in the field of outdoor recreation," he continued.

The assistant commissioner praised Dr. Ralph Woods and the faculty of Murray State College for the work they have done to develop resources in that area. He lauded A. Carmon former head of the Department for the foundation he laid. He said he would like to see the college continue to work closely with TVA in establishing certain new educational activities to "train more of our boys and girls for a profitable profession in outdoor recreation and park development."

Only guest for the meeting yesterday was Ed Long of the Farmer's Bank of Princeton, who was the guest of Harvey Ellis.

Rotary District Governor Granville Clark will be the guest of the club next Thursday when he arrives here for the annual District Governor's visit.

Three Slightly Hurt As Train Derailed

VALDOSTA, Ga. (AP) — A rain-swollen trestle collapsed under a Jacksonville, Fla., to Chicago passenger train northeast of here today, derailling part of it into a swollen creek. First reports said three persons were injured.

The Georgia highway patrol said the locomotive gave way under the weight of the train.

The patrol said 10 cars left the tracks but other reports said only four derailed. Two derailed units also were reported to have derailed.

The Atlantic Coast Line Railroad said the derailment happened about 11 a.m. near the small south Georgia town of Willacooche, about 40 miles northeast of here.

The train, the Seminole, left Jacksonville at 7:50 a.m. and was due in Chicago at 10:45 a.m. Saturday. A railroad spokesman said the train was carrying passengers from Miami and Tampa who had boarded at Jacksonville.

J. J. Pascoe, superintendent of transportation for the ACL at Jacksonville said the derailed cars were mail, express and baggage cars.

He said two women passengers and a mail clerk were reported to have slight injuries. They were taken to a hospital at Douglas, Ga.

Ambulances were sent to the scene from Douglas, Tifton and other towns in south Georgia.

miniature candles glowing in crystal globes or other pieces of glass you might have.

Mr. Dixon's variety of textures lent originality to his work. A large piece of curved bark from a piece of rough lumber was used as a background for a figurine of St. Francis. Candles and greens completed this arrangement. Several pieces of ceramic which were used were from the Macy Baker Ceramic shop in Providence. One of the most beautiful was a wood-toned composite topped with a large yellow candle surrounded with greens, permanent grapes and walnuts just touched with glitter.

The clubhouse is again a lovely Christmas picture with a ceiling high tree in one corner of the room and a white driftwood arrangement hung with clusters of red, green, and gold grapes on the mantle.

Mrs. James Garrison, Garden Club chairman welcomed the group and turned the meeting over to Mrs. Dewey Ragdale, program chairman who introduced Mr. Dixon.

Hostesses were Mrs. James Hamilton, Mrs. Fred Gingles, Mrs. Bradburn Hale, Mrs. B. C. Harris, Mrs. Carney Hendon, and Mrs. V. E. Windsor.

Mrs. Jack Kennedy, president of the Murray Women's Club assisted with the serving. The serving table was covered with a red cloth with a net over cloth. Silver candelabra and a miniature Christmas tree flocked white and trimmed with delicate birds and a tiny bird nest centered the table with punch bowls at either end.

ROLLISON GOES TO THE DEVIL

BY JOHN CREASEY

CHAPTER 39

RICHARD Rollison went into the room which had been turned into an office for the business of the Bat Masque.

An excited middle-aged woman, eagerly awaiting him, stood at the desk with a bundle of checks in her hands. She had a faded look as she glanced at Rollison and beckoned to him.

"I can hardly believe it," she stammered, "a sheet of paper on the desk covered with figures. 'Regard that, Mr. Rollison. The total already received is twenty-five million francs. It is miraculous! The poor of Paris will owe you an everlasting debt.'"

"One?" Rollison looked startled. "I've had the fun, you and the committee have done the work. I hate to say it, but you are to be ready in time to come and see the great climax, you'll have to hurry."

"And to make up the total," she said, and took Rollison's arm. "The good Lord will thank you."

Rollison looked embarrassed; when he came back from the door after seeing her out he went to the desk and studied the figures. There was a mark against those whom de Vignon had named; these were the really wealthy. Each was married; each man's wife the right would be weighed down with jewels.

There was a knock at the outer door and he strode into the main room to open it. There stood his man Jolly.

"Come in, Jolly!" Rollison gripped his hand. "I couldn't let you miss the big moment." He drew his man farther into the room. "How are you?"

"Mademoiselle Odette is very well, sir," said Jolly mischievously.

"So she should be, after five weeks under your influence."

"I don't want to hurry you, sir," said Jolly, "but if you are to be ready in good time you should start dressing. I left your costume with the valet and it should be along very soon."

An hour and a half later, Rollison stood in front of a full-length mirror and surveyed his reflection. The mask, specially made in London, was cunningly contrived; Mephisto to the life. The red body of the costume had a dull, mottled finish, giving an impression of smouldering heat.

"Don't be late yourself," Rollison told Jolly. "I'll point out Yvonne Blanc as soon as I can, and you're to watch her closely. If Madame Thysson turns up, I'll point her out, too. All clear?"

"Perfectly clear, sir," said Jolly.

At times there seemed to be more clowns than any other disguises arriving at the ball; every clown was from the Police Department.

Already the ballroom was published by arrangement with Harold Ober Associates. Revised version Copyright © 1964, by John Creasey. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

thorough and the orchestra was playing. The Devil was by himself, standing in the doorway of one of the anterooms when a plump clown passed him.

"Well dressed, Poincet," whispered Mephisto. The plump clown missed a step, then turned towards the man in red.

"It is you, my friend? One look at you makes me more nervous than I am."

"Nervous?"

"It could succeed, it could fail. Have you seen the jewels? What fools they are to bring them! There is a treasure house here tonight."

"You'll catch your treasure house?"

"If I do not, I shall know where to come," said Poincet. "Madame Thysson, I understand, will be here as soon as she can."

"A nice touch."

"Is de Vignon here?"

"Probably. Don't forget to make sure all the clowns have their refreshment; if de Vignon isn't here himself, he has his spies. Rollison moved away towards a shepherdess who stood by herself, her pretty mask turned towards him.

"Will you dance with the Devil?" he murmured.

She turned, and her laughing eyes were close to his. "Have you finished with the dangerous clown?"

"Dangerous?"

"That is Papa Poincet."

"He will soon be asleep," said Rollison. Jolly, wearing only an eye mask, was nearby, and Rollison caught his eye and nodded.

Yvonne danced well, seemed to give herself completely to the gaiety. Any doubts of the success of the ball had gone. The vast ballroom was thronged, the great chandeliers scintillated, and the jewels on broad bosoms and round, slim or scraggy necks on the wrists and in the hair of the women, gave a kind of shimmering brightness.

Rollison lost Yvonne. Twice he saw de Vignon, unmistakable to anyone who knew him, also dressed in the shimmering red of the Devil. Rollison stiffed the third time he saw him. He was dancing with Joan of Arc.

Rollison watched them for a while. De Vignon was laughing. The dance was a waltz, and they danced together superbly as if they had often danced together. Then his attention was distracted.

"Madame Thysson?" asked Jolly.

"Joan of Arc."

"Thank you, sir. The police have had their refreshment in two relays."

"Good. The fun starts in an hour."

Jolly moved away and Peter Latimer took his place.

"It wasn't sure you were here until I saw Jolly. You haven't brought Odette Riviere here, have you?"

"I have not, yet!"

"When does the fun start?"

"Rollison's vision was blurred, but one thing stood out: Madame Thysson, with a small, smoldering automatic pistol in her hand."

The story concludes tomorrow.
